DECLARATION OF JOSEPH P. ABELE

1.

I, Joseph P. Abele, am over twenty-one years of age, am of sound mind and health, and am otherwise qualified to give this declaration, and I do so freely as my own voluntary act, without any duress or coercion.

I have been employed as an independent contractor for website development for Last Minute Tee Times, Inc. (hereinafter "LMTT") since September 28, 1999. I have handled substantially all development, testing and maintenance of the LMTT website.

3.

My first conversation with Michael Last regarding an online tee time reservation system occurred in February 18, 1999. At that time, I worked for a company called Golf-Links.com, Inc., and Michael Last was a potential client.

4.

In September 22, 1999, I had a conference call with Michael Last and Todd Gebron (my Golf-Links.com partner). Michael Last was considering dropping Tee Master for development. He defined his need for custom programming of a golf reservation website and laid out his plans.

5.

On September 28, 1999, Michael Last submitted an LMTT online specification to me for development attached as Exhibit A. I began work on developing the website and database according to Michael Last's specifications.

6.

The first reservation in the LMTT database is a test reservation created on October 21, 1999 at 3:32 pm as Reservation Number 920.

7.

On October 27, 1999, LMTT launched its beta site for testing and demonstration of online booking capability. The golfer interface was a web page that included multiple tee times at multiple courses, less than the entire tee sheet of times for a day, available at the golf courses for reservation. In relevant functional respects, the golfer interface was fully functional to execute the claimed method to serve the golfer web page and to take reservations from the golfer via the Internet. In its functional aspects in terms of the golfer interface, the beta site is that that has always been used on the LMTT website.

The first reservation by someone outside of LMTT occurred on October 27, 1999 at 2:16 pm by Blair Krause as Reservation Number 937.

9.

In November 1999, we made some minor modifications to the website for testing and demonstration of online booking of tee times. None of these changes are relevant to the claimed features of the LMTT website.

10.

On November 28, 1999, the first commercial version of the LMTT website was released after I completed its development along with modifications noted as desirable after beta testing of the LMTT website.

11.

On November 30, 1999, the first actual reservation was made on the LMTT website by a golfer using a web browser on the Internet, reserving a December 3, 1999 tee time.

12.

On December 1, 1999, the LMTT website www.lmtt.com officially launched the online reservation section, permitting golfer's to access the website via the Internet.

13.

Throughout the entire time period from specification of the LMTT website features on September 28, 1999 through completion of the beta test site on October 27, 1999, through completion and launch of the actual website on December 1, 1999, I worked diligently to develop and implement the actual working website for LMTT embodying a golfer interface. In fact, full development for a website of this nature from its specification in September 28, 1999 through the development of the beta test website on October 27, 1999, and further through launch of the actual website on December 1, 1999, is extraordinarily fast for a website of this nature, demonstrating our diligence in producing a working website that implemented the method of serving golfer web pages as claimed in the subject application.

From the beginning, the LMTT website had a hub server configured to receive and respond to requests from golfers via web browsers and personal computers via the Internet to generate a web page listing multiple tee times for each of multiple golf courses on a single web page, yet less than the entire tee sheet for the day.

In the normal operation of the hub server and database of the LMTT website in the usual course of the business of LMTT, there is a "Date Created" field for each database record which is populated automatically by the LMTT database server. No code in the LMTT system ever modifies this field. The only way it can be changed is by me manually. I am the only one that can access the database in this capacity, and I hereby testify that I have not changed these dates and that they are in fact the dates set by the database server when the data was originally stored. The dates in the LMTT database are sequential and show a booking history that is consistent from the time that the LMTT website was developed through to the present date.

In my work with LMTT, I have been personally involved in the development and implementation of various versions of LMTT's online tee time reservation system, services and related technology in which prospective golfers can access available tee times that are posted to a hub server by multiple golf courses. I thus have directly witnessed all facts stated in this Declaration through my personal involvement with development and implementation of the LMTT online tee time reservation system and services while employed by LMTT.

17.

I hereby declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under 18 U.S.C. 1001 and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patent issued thereon.

Design Specification for "LMTT Online" Rev 1.0

Prepared for: Golf-Links

Prepared by Mike Last
Last Minute Tee Times

9/28/99

LMTT PROPRIETARY

1.0 Introduction-

This specification details the screen layouts and functions for a software package that is envisioned by Last Minute Tee Times, Atlanta. It summarizes a number of emails, faxes, etc. that have been exchanged previously under existing NDA between Last Minute Tee Times and Golf-Links. The primary intent of the new software is to allow daily fee golfers to easily book a next-day or advance tee time at a multiple local courses in conjunction with the LMTT web site. Golf courses will allocate times throughout the week and "LMTT Online" will provide a new way to market these times to locals, visitors, etc.. The primary consideration is ease of use for the golfer and the ability to quickly generate accurate reports for billing. The longer term goal is to install the full up Golf-Links package at each course.

2.0 User Interfaces-INTERFACE FOR GOLFER:

LMTT will provide the necessary web "frames" to house the new Golf-Links layout. The web surfing golfer should be able to view and book:

- all next day tee times available at up to approximately 20 courses (at least 10 per screen as shown in Figure 1), allowing a maximum of 5-10 tee times per course.
- all available "advance" times at any ONE course (available via pull-down menu) for one week out (same as in Figure 1 except seven different days of times for a single course- days of the week along the horizontal axis). Once again, 5-10 tee times per course maximum depending on speed of refresh achievable.

Note: The frame displaying available times/ booking times should be a maximum of 550 pixels wide. The Golf Links "clipboard" effect is highly desirable as it exists today if possible.

LMTT PROPRIETARY

The user interface should allow for a booking with a minimal number of steps. It should simply ask for user name, password, number of players (used to search times). After verifying user name/ password, the golfers can see next-day and advance tee times. Upon clicking on an available time, the golfer goes immediately to a "Please confirm your booking" screen where he is given the option of entering additional information about his group and confirming his reservation. Upon confirming the information on this screen, the golfer receives a confirmation that he can print and bring to the course.

Day to day Operations: Tee times will be manually "internet enabled" by LMTT every Sunday night for a two week window. Tee times will be made available for booking one week in advance. Using this method, we are guaranteed to have valid times for one week out at any course. ALL LMTT bookings will be made through the new software so that accurate records can be kept for billing purposes.

Rules: A single cannot book a tee time by himself. Once a tee time is partially filled, a single may join the group (this is why we need to ask how many players in the group). As stated above, tee times will be bookable within a one week window.

Registration Page- Golfers should initially be asked to register as a "LMTT Member" before viewing available times for booking. The required input fields for registration are name, email. The optional fields are address, phone, cc number (to speed up process for them later). The terms of use should also be included on this page... including policy on no-shows. The registration page should have an "I agree" box regarding LMTT policies. CC number will be required (not charged) for actual booking.

INTERFACE FOR HOTEL PERSONEL (KEY):

It is essential to have a slightly modified user interface for the hotels. Each major hotel will be assigned a user name and password and will have access to a unique area of the page. The additional fields required are "golfer name", "hotel person booking reservation". A field for cc number of the guest may be desirable (just as motivation). We will have the hotel name by default (user name/password assigned to all major hotels).

3.0 Configuration Tool for Call Center/ Operator

This tool is essential for the efficient loading of the available times for Internet booking.

The manual "internet enabling" of times requires that groups of tee times can be easily enabled for multiple days for as much as weeks/ months ahead. Assume that the entire tee sheet will be visible (to the person "enabling" the times) for each course. The "enabler" must be able to quickly enable (and disable) the times that will be designated "LMTT times" and for each course. Once a time is

"enabled" (and assuming it fits within the one-week window), it is available for booking via the Internet.

4.0 Call Center Multi-course Tee Sheet View

The call center is in effect a multi-course clubhouse. Names of players on the tee sheet that are booked by LMTT should be visible to the call center personnel. It is also required that a tee time may be manually booked at the call center (a time that is not previously designated for LMTT)... for example, a call comes in on a Tuesday morning for a Tuesday afternoon ("last minute") tee time. In this case, the call center agent should be able to manually book a tee time while speaking directly with the club to confirm availability. This creates a record of the booking for billing purposes. A pull down menu is envisioned so that the call center can choose the course and see the tee sheet for that course. Assume roughly 20 courses. The call center entry screen should include all the fields necessary to create a new member while booking his first time through LMTT. (KEY) This can be in the form of a separate "create new member" screen and should include all of the necessary fields for the hotel interface. If a call comes from a hotel, we need to be able to record the name of the hotel person making the call along with the guest/ golfer's name.

5.0 Reports

Detailed reports must be generated each month for each course. These reports include details of each reservation made. A simple list showing the date, tee time, name, number of players, and hotel person (if applicable) for each reservation should be generated each month for each course. This should resemble a phone bill. It is also essential to designate whether the time is a "last minute" time (defined as booked after 5PM the night before OR the day of) eg- "peak vs. non-peak" on a cellular phone bill. Totals for each course should be provided for both "advance" and "last minute" rounds. These reports are included with each invoice to the course and are used as the basis for billing.

6.0 Auto-fax

Each night (at roughly 4 AM), each LMTT course will receive an automatic itemized fax from LMTT which provides detailed reservation information for all reservations booked the previous day. Once again, date, tee time, name, number of players should be sufficient for the fax. In addition, LMTT will receive an autofax which details ALL of the tee times booked during that 24 period at all of the courses.

I, Joseph Ferguson, am over twenty-one years of age, am of sound mind and health, and am otherwise qualified to give this declaration, and I do so freely as my own voluntary act, without any duress or coercion.

I considered investing in Last Minute Tee Times, LLC ("LMTT") in early to mid 2000. Ultimately, I decided not to invest in LMTT so I do not have, and never have had, any equity or other interest in LMTT.

3.

What prompted my interest was reading an article in 2000 about LMTT in a local magazine "Points North" that showed the golfer web interface listing multiple tee times, less than all tee times for the entire golf day, for each of multiple golf courses on a single web page.

4.

Exhibit A is a copy of the "Points North" article mentioned above.

As part of my research on LMTT, I reviewed the websites of numerous online tee time companies including the Linkstime website. To the best of my recollection, none had the golfer interface described above.

6.

Attached as Exhibit B are screen shots of various golf reservation tee time websites I printed out and provided to Michael Last, LMTT from May 2000, none of which have the features of the LMTT website described above.

Point, Click & Golf

Alpharetta Resident's Site Matches Golfers With Available Tee Times at Area Courses.

BY CHARLES BRADEORD

he golf carts have been put away; the pro shop is closed; and action at the 19th hole is in full swing. Unfortunately, you forgot to reserve a morning tee time for you and your clients, and no one at the course will answer your vital call. How do you save face at the last minute so your clients can save par tomorrow? Like an old, trusted sand wedge, Last-Minute Tee Times (LMTT) can help you out with a quick phone call or the click of a mouse.

Mike Last, an electrical engineering graduate of Georgia Tech, left a job in high-tech business development to launch his own Web business that links golfers and Atlanta-area golf courses together at the last minute. At LMTT.com, golfers access next-day (and some advance) tee time availability on one screen. Last-minute times are gathered each night and posted directly to the site, making them available to callers and Web browsers alike. The service is free to the golfer because LMTT is compensated by the courses to clear out their "distressed inventory." The result is like a 4-inch putt for both golfers and the courses.

"Essentially, we make tee times easy. We centralize tee-time reservations into one online 'hub,'" Last said. "Golfers in north Atlanta, and visitors from all over the world, can see available tee times at several Atlanta-area courses on one screen." So, rather than scrambling for a last-minute tee time, golfers can spend more time scrambling for par.

"In addition, a quality golf course often will get a cancellation for the following day just before closing its pro shop for the night," Last said. "We gather these valuable tee times and post them to our site, making them available to Atlanta golfers and visitors."

LMTT has become a huge hit with business travelers and pleasure seekers who visit Atlanta, as well as with many concierges who aim to please their hotel guests. LMTT brochures are visible in many hotel lobbies throughout the city and are responsible for driving the young business's increasing revenues.

LMTT.com is easier to navigate than a short par-three and includes descriptions about its member courses. At present, approximately 20 courses are listed, and several more are coming soon. Six of those are located north of downtown, including Bridge Mill, Laurel Springs, St. Marlo, Hamilton Mill, Towne Lake Hills and Woodmont. The site soon will feature Hampton Creek and Bentwater, as well.

Last, however, maintains that Atlanta's best golf values can be found in the opposite direction. "To be honest, I find that the real golf values are located south of Atlanta," he said. "North tends to be the high-rent district. Recently, however, a new course, Woodmont, opened in Canton. At $55 per round during the week, I consider this Robert Trent Jones course a good value. In fact, they spent $11 million to build the course and will spend nearly $1 million per year on maintenance of the course."

Last said that all LMTT courses in north Atlanta offer low handicappers a challenging round of golf. "While many of the low handicappers tend to join the private clubs, such as Settindown Creek, Atlanta National and the Golf Club of Georgia, almost all of the newer, semi-private clubs in north Atlanta pack plenty of punch from the 'tips."

And, if you don't mind investing a full day for a golf outing, Last said that Tom Fazio's "The Frog" in Villa Rica, Southerness in Stockbridge, Orchard Hills and Summergrove in Newnan and Georgia National in McDonough all are well worth the trip to play.

For the many golfers who choose not to join a private golf or country club but would enjoy playing at some of the area's more exclusive clubs, LMTT is working on a few initiatives that will make this possible. LMTT soon will be able to book limited outings at some of these exclusive clubs and give the daily-fee player a chance to play them. Some private clubs already offer select tee times to guests of the higher-end hotels that LMTT works with, Last said.

Since the company's introduction of online tee times in Atlanta, LMTT already has more than 1,100 golfers as registered users booking tee times on its Web site. These golfers are from all over the country and around the globe. In fact, LMTT has booked tee times for golfers from 43 different states and nine different countries. The convenience and detailed information keeps them coming back for more.

Last-Minute Tee Times is making its plans for future business expansion, not only in Atlanta but in other markets as well. It is working diligently to add courses to the service and plans to have a minimum of 25 by year's end. The company also has developed a method by which member courses can post their own last-minute times directly to the LMTT Web site (patent pending), and the service will be provided for LMTT courses this spring. LMTT also has a patent pending for the way multiple courses' tee times display on one screen.

Last has been approached by individuals to offer LMTT's services in several other hot golf markets, such as Charlotte, northern Ohio, Scottsdale and Boston. He is in the process of raising more than $1 million from accredited private investors and plans to use that money to accelerate the rollout in Atlanta, to expand to other cities, and to complete the development of the LMTT software by adding new features.

Among LMTT's board of advisors/directors are Herman Vonhof, the visionary behind the Georgian Resort and Grand Cypress; C.J. Fitzgerald, CEO of TenNorth Software, a fast-growing, business-to-business Internet company; and Wayt King, a local patent attorney and strategist.

Last-Minute Tee Times plans to expand rapidly but wisely. Last has a detailed business plan that is as important to him as an accurate yardage book is to a PGA professional playing at Augusta National for the first time. Course management is essential, and Last is squarely focused on providing golfers with more courses and more options in the future. It's just a chip and a putt away!

"Imagine being able to go to your personal computer at 10:30 p.m. (after you hear the weather forecast has improved for the better) and see tee times for the next morning at 40 area courses on one screen," Last said. "In addition, we will continue to provide a free service to help golfers find the right course for their business and social outings; and we'll soon be adding additional online services that will provide added convenience for Atlanta golfers."

Growth potential drives dot-coms By Bruce Horovitz USA TODAY (April 13, 2000)

The fairway is just a click away.

Dot-coms are vying to cash in on a piece of the $60 billion that Americans will spend on golf this year. Their e-twist: booking tee times online.

No more dialing and redialing the clubhouse or pro shop. No more waiting in long lines for tee times. No more lost sign-up sheets. If you can order pizza and pet food online, why not book tee times?

Driving all this: a mere 65% occupancy rate at the nation's 16,000-plus golf courses. While swank courses such as Pebble Beach turn golfers away in droves, hundreds of municipal, public and semiprivate courses are starving for additional business.

Meanwhile, the country's 26 million golfers each book an average of 20 tee times every year.

Over the past two years, more than a dozen firms have created online tee-time sites. Most sites make about $5 commission for each tee time booked. Many also plan to profit from sales of golf equipment, golf vacations and ads.

But there are potential snags. Among them: a limited choice of courses, and yet another group of marketers eager to gather valuable data on an affluent group of consumers.

And convincing golfers to sign on in order to sign up for tee times is no chip shot. Fewer than 1% of tee times are booked online nationally.

5/25/00

"Right now, the whole thing is a mess," says Mike Stachura, associate editor of Golf Digest. "One year from now, only three of these companies will be around. And, ultimately, probably just one."

Some golf courses have had much more success than others with online bookings. Nearly 10% of tee times are booked online at Lyman Orchard Golf Club in Middlefield, Conn. But some golfers are leery, says Matt Burgess, assistant pro at the club. "At lot of golfers want the name of the guy they talked to -- not a confirmation number."

Four key sites:

BANEY -

* Teetimes.com For the moment, this is arguably the most successful site, booking nearly 1,000 rounds a day. "That's as much as everyone else combined," says CEO Tim Harris, who recently signed on golfer Curtis Strange as spokesman and minority owner.

The site focuses on East Coast courses. It lists about 100 courses but plans to have nearly 1,000 by year's end.

BANELY ->

* Book4golf.com It won't be running until May, but it threatens to ultimately be the "bigfoot" of tee-time sites.

It has signed exclusive contracts with two of the largest golf course operators in the country: American Golf and Meadowbrook Golf Group, CEO Phil DeLeon says.

In a publicity stunt Wednesday to show how easy it is to book tee times from any location, Book4golf sent world-class climber Ben Webster on an expedition to the base camp on the 17,388-foot level of Mount Everest. There, he used the Web site to book a tee time for a future round.

(DEAD) A

* Greens.com CEO Steve Darrow projects that nearly 50% of all tee times will be booked online within four years.

"It's a race for who will own the marketplace," says
Darrow, whose site is expanding into Europe. Darrow says his site now is booking close to 9,000 tee times monthly.

(DEAD) -7

* TheGolfer.com This site is especially big on the West Coast -- particularly in the San Diego area, where it books tee times at Torrey Pines Golf Course, home course for the PGA Tour's Buick Invitational. The site has links with 320 courses, CEO Eric Campbell says.

"The courses want to carefully test the dot-com waters," Campbell says. "They're all afraid of getting burned."

ForeTeeTimes™

It's a simple fact--as a golf course, you are in business to sell tee times. Make sure you get maximum revenue out of those tee times with ForeTeeTimes™, the internet based electronic tee sheet reservation system. Unlike paper tee sheets, ForeTeeTimes™ opens up your course to bookings from many outside sources you select, including hotels, corporate travel planners, travel agents and the online golfer. This lets you book high revenue golfers such as business travelers, corporate executives and vacationing golf enthusiasts who are willing to pay premium rates for open rounds and spend more in your pro shop and clubhouse.

It also eliminates a large percentage of calls to the pro shop, so you can spend more time on the driving range giving lessons. In addition, teetime.com's call center can take all telephone reservations or peak time rollovers so that no one gets a busy signal ever again.

Unlike paper tee sheets, ForeTeeTimes™ makes it easy to review performance as well as forecast and manage your revenue.

To arrange a demonstration of our award-winning products, contact our sales team at (877)TEE MAXX or through e-mail.

About Our Gervices

Established in 1993 to provide a more efficient and user-friendly method of reserving tee times at golf courses, The Golf Network is a rapidly growing network of member courses and golfers nationwide! The Golf Network specializes in managing tee time phone-in reservations for golf courses by utilizing live reservation attendants to service golfers needs 24-hours a day, and of course, our Internet Tee Time Reservation service is also available. Golfers love to use this system because of the convenience and speed, and golf course management personnel are delighted with the effectiveness and ease of use!

How Do Golfers Benefit?

Our service allows golfers the convenience to make tee time reservations with any of our member courses anywhere in the United States! A 24-hour liveattendant call center assures prompt and efficient handling of golfer's requests. The ability to make reservations directly on this web site adds to the convenience for our golfers.

We also have additional areas of interest for golfers such as:

- * Chat and email the lowest prices on clubs & equipment
- * Golf Resorts for vacations and trips!
- * Golf Schools and Instruction to develop your skill or learn the game from tee to green!
- * Discounts and Promotions specials deals for golfers!
- * Timeshare opportunities and Real Estate listings!
- * More Categories are being added all the time!

Using The Golf Network allows my staff to provide better customer service. No more interruptions by a constantly ringing phone.

Everyone - golfers and staff - are so much happier!

Barry Kurokawa, Pro Shop Manager, Portland, OR.

How Do Golf Courses Benefit?

Have you considered changing your greens fees, yet you're at a loss for solid information to base your decision on? Have you thought about offering promotions but you're not sure who to target or just exactly what time or what days you should offer them? How much do you know about the people who play your course? Where do they come from? How often do they play? These are but a few of the questions facing course managers.

The Golf Network reservation system collects a variety of information about each golfer that plays your course. In addition, you'll now have access to information about your course play that in the past was either manually generated or perhaps not even known.

Information is power, and the reports generated from our system will empower you to make successful management decisions for your course it all translates into INCREASED REVENUE and INCREASED PROFITS!

There are many advantages to joining The Golf Network! Here are just a few:

- * Joining our network places your course among some of the nation's busiest golf courses. You'll enjoy an increase in rounds of golf played at your course.
- * Customer service is more important than ever. When you join The Golf Network, you'll be providing your golfers a higher level of customer service by allowing our extensively trained live reservation attendants to handle their golfing needs. No more complaints from golfers about busy signals or hurried employees behind the counter.
- * As a member course, your pro shop staffing costs will decrease and employee morale will increase by redirecting your phone-in reservations to our central call center. This really helps improve your bottom line and increase productivity.
- * All member courses receive free promotion through the many advertising mediums utilized by The Golf Network. As a result, you should realize a reduction in your advertising budget, which translates into increased profits for your course!

The Golf Network has provided me with a solution that few service providers have been able to do in my 25 years managing golf courses. They've helped me reduce staff costs and bring organization to what was otherwise disorder when we took calls ourselves. They really do add value and golfers love it!

About Golf US

GOLF US is a web site developed for golfers in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and the surrounding Midwest. We try to provide low cost advertising opportunities for merchandisers, Pro Shops, manufacturers, retailers and the courses themselves in order to bring all aspects of the golf community to one central site. It is this cooperative marketing that allows us to focus on the needs of golf courses and businesses, as well as the needs of the golfers.

GOLF US was created in the spring of 1998 and in 1999 we were able to expand our presence in Indiana, while stretching into Illinois and Ohio. Currently, we have developed over 100 golf course web sites and we look to continue this rapid pace. Our services now include e-commerce applications, online registrations and consultation on all Internet systems.

The year 2000 promises to be highly exciting for the staff here at GOLF US. We have added several new features to attract and keep the interest of golfers throughout the nation. These features include our Fantasy Golf League, Round of the Day contest, Betting Game of the Week and our online Tee Time Auction. This auction will include dozens of tee times each day and will generate tremendous coverage across the state. It will also make it considerably easier for you (Club Pro, Course Manager, etc.) to develop your own unique web presence at no cost.

GOLF US is a golf course design company that will continue to work and grow with all types of facilities. If you're interested in our design packages please click here. To see if your course is eligible to trade tee times for our services please fill out our brief contact form. This eligibility is based solely on your location and if we aren't in your area yet, we will be shortly.
